

Communication in Air Traffic Control: Imtradex present innovations at the ATC Global 2012

Dreieich 20th December 2011 - The smooth running at large international airports can only succeed if the employees of ATC understand each other clearly, and also communicate fatigue free over long periods of time. Professionals in the field of Air Traffic Control (ATC) therefore place heavy demands on their technological means of communication. A highlight in a series of pioneering innovations for the ATC, which Imtradex Hör-/Sprechsysteme GmbH (www.imtradex.com) has recently brought to the market, is the table microphone TM2-LS of anodized aluminium with integrated speaker.

The TM2-LS has a high stability, can be connected to every common voice-communication system and is also available in a USB version. Its flexible gooseneck allows an accurate intricate positioning of the microphone. "The high-performance loudspeakers integrated in the broad foot is a special development: Thanks to a specially designed cone-shaped diffuser it offers a superb sound quality in all directions," Ralf Kudernak, managing director of Imtradex Hör-/Sprechsysteme GmbH underlines. The company also has developed a model with two speakers, the TM2-LS2, which makes the interception of two separate signal sources possible. Imtradex will present both developments to the international audience at the ATC Global in March 2012 in Amsterdam.

At the international meeting place for the air traffic control, are expected more than 5,000 trade visitors from over 100 different countries. The manufacturer of hear /talk solutions will also introduce the new monaural neckband headset AirTalk XSN. Its innovative design makes it pressure free, most durable and flexible at the same time. The comfortable carrying method ensures fatigue-free operation and is perfect for use in the field of ATC. The AirTalk XSN offers Acoustic Shock Protection (ASP); this function shields the ear from increased noise levels. A raised edge, located on the top side of the microphone marks its position and allows both, accurate direction and optimum noise compensation.
